Cancer man, 83, pelted with tiles

BY ADAM LUKE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A MAN who abused and threw roofing tiles at an 83-year-old cancer sufferer has been jailed for almost three years.

Damien Stockwell, of Primrose Hill, Haverhill, had been drinking heavily on March 22 before he arrived at the home of his former partner in Hazel Close that evening.

Alerted by the shouting and banging going on next door, neighbour William Leatherland went outside to find out what was going on but was confronted by Stockwell, Ipswich Crown Court heard on Wednesday.

The pensioner was pelted with roofing tiles outside his home, which Stockwell had picked up from a nearby building site, and threatened him with.

Michael Crimp, prosecuting, said Stockwell shouted at Mr Leatherland, "Why don't you die of cancer?"

Stockwell's increasingly aggressive and noisy behaviour resulted in other neighbours emerging from their homes, but they too were met with abuse, threats and swearing. A woman was also struck by a roof tile thrown by the offender.

Mr Crimp said: "Mr Leatherland was the victim of an unprovoked attack which left him with bruising to his arm and stomach after he was struck by two of the tiles which

Parties fit for royalty

Royal wedding fever was alive in Haverhill as young and old celebrated the marriage of the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge.

A number of parties and public viewings took place across the town and outlying villages as William and Kate's big day soon turned into a great British event.

At the Happy Faces pre-school royal wedding party, an enormous red, white and blue dinosaur was the star of the show.

Great Britasaurus was put together and decorated by 27 children at the centre in Colne Valley Road to mark the special occasion, as youngsters dressed up in the national colours with painted faces to match, and wore hats they had specially prepared at home for the party.

Children also made keepsake royal wedding photo frames with their names on, and enjoyed a picnic lunch and two-tiered wedding cake in the design of the Union flag.

Claire Everett, a parent and organiser, said: "Everyone had a really good day. The support from all the parents and the school was fantastic and the children had a great time. It is something they will remember for a long time, I think."

Meanwhile, The

Days Inn on Haverhill's business park, invited the local community celebrate in style.

Guests donned their wedding attire and celebrated while watching the ceremony in the lounge, which was decorated to mark the occasion.

Cream teas, sandwiches and Pimms were for sale at the event and a raffle was also drawn with prizes donated from local businesses – the £460 raised will go to the charity Help For Heroes.

Judith Haworth, attending with her family, said "It was so nice to be able to dress up and watch the royal wedding with the family and the local community.

"The hotel looked absolutely fabulous, the staff had obviously put a lot of time and effort into ensuring every one had a lovely time."

Another popular event was staged at the Haverhill Arts Centre where hundreds of people spent much of the day watching the wedding live on the cinema screen in the hall, which had been decked out in Union flag bunting to create their own indoor street party.

An open air free event also took place at the newly-opened plaza in Ehringhausen Way. Jade Donno, local singer and finalist of Open Mic 2010 at the 02 arena in London, entertained the crowds.

Go-ahead for new retail site

APPROVAL has been granted to develop a retail park on the edge of Haverhill.

Following Haverhill Town Council's positive response last month to HPG Development's plan to transform the former Workspace Office site into a shopping park, St Edmundsbury Borough Council's planning committee followed suit last week by giving it the thumbs up.

Town councillors had been worried that their district colleagues would reject the proposals over fears it could damage town centre trade.

But Cllr Anne Gower, who represents Haverhill at borough level, said the Hamlet Green development "would actually link the site to the town centre very neatly and offer a more aesthetic appeal to the whole area."

The site, which has remained empty since early 2007, will feature 11 business start-up units, nine warehouses, three retail units and a McDonald's restaurant and drive through.

Plans were altered earlier this year to ensure only bulk goods were sold in the retail units and that the number of stores was reduced.

Joanna Jones, representing HPG, said the scheme was a £12 million investment, including a £250,000 contribution to the improvement of Haverhill's town centre and the creation of 250 jobs.

Store jobs at risk

DIY chain Focus, which has a store in Haverhill, has called in administrators, putting thousands of jobs at risk.

The company, with an outlet on Cambridge Road Retail Park in Haverhill, stopped taking orders on its website yesterday and has asked Ernst & Young to act as administrator, saying it had no alternative after it defaulted on a credit facility.

Focus, which has 178 stores and employs 3,919 staff, is expected to trade as normal until an administrator is officially appointed.

A statement on its website read: "The directors have sought consent from the business's lenders to appoint E&Y as the administrators. All stakeholders including staff are being informed."

A decent sum-o money: runners helped raise thousands for St Nicholas Hospice Care.

Big fat fundraiser for hospice is huge hit!

SCORES of madcap fundraisers walked, jogged, shuffled and tripped their way around a playing field – dressed up as sumo wrestlers. Haverhill Recreation Ground hosted the first ever charity sumo run on Sunday morning in the Bank Holiday sunshine, as participants donned special inflatable suits in aid of St Nicholas Hospice Care, and raised more than £5,000.

Matthew Hancock, Conservative MP for West Suffolk, was one of the participants on the day.

After the run, Mr Hancock said: "Three laps seemed a lot further than I thought."

"It's quite hot and sweaty if you're dressed as a sumo but it was all in the name of a good cause."

"St Nicholas Hospice Care is a brilliant charity to support."

Mr Hancock came third, with Jim Clark, of Halstead, taking second place and Niall Grant, of Bury St Edmunds, claiming first.

Mr Grant said he had chosen to take part after his grandfather was cared for by the hospice.

He said: "I didn't have any trips or falls, it was just really hot. Luckily, the sumo suit kept the wind out."

Colleagues Kerry Meek and Debbie Hartshorn from Haverhill's Barclays Bank, which provided funding, also took part, accessorised their suits with tassels.

Kevin Clements, fundraising manager, added: "The day went brilliantly – lots of sunshine and laughter. We are pleased everyone who took part seemed to enjoy it."

Attack on pensioner

Stockwell had hurled at him."

Mr Leatherland told police after the disgraceful attack that despite being threatened, he had been determined to stand up to the younger man, saying: "I'm old but I was angry."

Stockwell then lashed out at police officers, who had received a call from a concerned neighbour, on his arrest and continued to swear and make threats as he was taken away.

Meanwhile, Mr Leatherland was treated at the scene by paramedics.

Joanne Eley, mitigating on behalf of her client, said that Stockwell's recollections of that night had been clouded because of the amount of alcohol he had drunk.

The aggressive episode came less than two months after Stockwell was released from a previous prison term for assault offences.

Stockwell, who pleaded guilty to affray and resisting a police officer, will now serve the remainder of his previous sentence, taking him to June next year, and a further 20 months for the latest offences.

Judge Peter Fenn, sentencing, told Stockwell that the seriousness of the incident had been aggravated by his treatment of a frail and vulnerable victim.

Speaking after the attack, Mr Leatherland said he had been left a "nervous wreck" by what happened, and felt concerned on hearing noises outside his home and feared returning to his property to find it damaged.

Mr Leatherland said: "I'm 83 years old and I want to make it to my next birthday."

He added that the incident had impacted on his health, his appetite and his previously positive attitude.

Green light for town research park plans

PLANS for a major boost to Haverhill's economy have been approved by St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

The go-ahead has been given to the Master Plan for a 450,000 sq ft research park on a 30-acre site to the north of the town. Work could start in the next 12 months.

Nic Rumsey, of developers Carisbrooke Investments, said: "This will be a key ingredient in securing the long-term prosperity of Haverhill, creating up to 1,000 jobs in the hi-tech industries and related services."

"We are geographically close to the South Cambridgeshire hi-tech clusters at Great Chesterford, Babraham and Granta Park, to which many employees commute from Haverhill."

"With highly favourable terms we expect to compete strongly with them. Also, our proximity to London will reinforce the northward exodus of companies into Haverhill, drawing hi-tech firms out of the capital."

There is local support for the research park, including from the Haverhill Chamber of Commerce.

Carisbrooke has already created Haverhill Business Park, which provides nearly 400,000 sq ft of production, warehouse and office space to major firms such as Percy Dalton's, Buildbase, Terence Turner Tanks, Culina Logistics, Harvester Group public house and an 80-bed Days Inn Hotel.

The Haverhill Research Park Master Plan negotiations have been led by Cambridge-based surveyor Cheffins. It may also include light industrial and office use, with low-density development and extensive landscaping.

The council has also agreed in principle to the inclusion of two elements of higher value development to help finance the construction of the research park, including eight acres of housing and a landmark office, hotel and restaurant development.

Cheffins head of planning, Paul Sutton, says: "We intend to submit an outline planning application before the end of this year with the hope infrastructure works can start in the spring of next year."

"With the design-and-build packages offered by Carisbrooke, occupiers could be opening their doors as early as spring 2013."

Team walks on for Jessica

Family and friends of a teenager who died from bone cancer have raised more than £8,000 ahead of a 96-mile walk in her memory.

Shirley and Mic Gower, their 12-year-old daughter Isabelle and seven others will walk for seven days along the West Highland Way in memory of ex-Linton Village College pupil Jessica Gower.

Jessica was aged just 14 when she died on December 8 last year from osteosarcoma, the most common form of primary bone cancer.

The team of 10 walkers have now smashed their £3,000 fund-raising target by collecting more than £8,000 for the Bone Cancer Research Trust.

As well as sponsorship and donations, friends have also completed "mini walks" to help boost the total.

Inspired by the efforts of Team Jess, Eliza Keeble, aged 6, walked from East Town Park to West Town Park in Haverhill one Sunday to raise £200 towards the cause, and family friend Annabelle Tabrar, 12, has been walking every weekend to clock up the same number of miles the team will be walking in Scotland from May 21.

The West Highland Way runs from just outside Glasgow to Fort William and walking alongside the Gower's will be Allen and Hilary New, and Steve Gower – Jessica's uncles and aunt – family friends Karen, Jem and George Willetts and Jessica's school friend Katrina Bass.

Shirley, of Arrandene Road, Haverhill, said the team had been overwhelmed by the support.

She said: "We've been training really hard but we're overcome with delight at the amount that has been raised – it has far exceeded what we thought and there's still more to come."

Jessica's illness began when she was 13 with a pain in her hip, which at first was put down to growing pains but doctors later discovered a tumour.

She immediately began treatment, including a hip replacement, chemotherapy and finally radiotherapy.

Paying tribute to her daughter, Shirley added: "Jess was a beautiful girl who was full of life. She was positive, funny, clever and kind.

"Jess was remarkable throughout her illness. She was determined to keep fighting and she never complained. Her strength and courage amazed us all."

Help stamp out thefts

DRIVERS of trucks and vans are again being invited to protect their vehicles from catalytic converter thieves during marking sessions organised by Suffolk police. Officers from local Safer Neighbourhood Teams will mark the converters by engraving or stamping them and branding them with heat-resistant paint.

The service will be offered at Mitchell Motors in Hollands Road, Haverhill, on Monday, May 16 from 5-8pm.

Det Insp Andy Footer said: "Catalytic converters continue to be stolen in the county, with a number being stolen over the latest Bank Holiday weekend.

"I would particularly encourage drivers of vehicles such as Ford Rangers and Mercedes Sprinter vans, as an example, to come along, as these are the vehicles most targeted."

Catalytic converters were stolen from Hollands Road and Leiston Road in the town between Friday and Monday.

Bike goes from drive

A MOTORBIKE has been stolen from outside a home.

Police are appealing for information after the black Kawasaki bike, registration R494RJB, was taken from a driveway in Recreation Road, Haverhill between 4pm on Monday and 8am the following day.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to Sgt Sarah Bartley at the Haverhill Safer Neighbourhood Team on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Tools taken from van

TOOLS were stolen from a van on a driveway outside a house.

Offenders broke into the white Fiat Scudo vehicle between 11.30pm last Thursday and 11.30am the following day in Rockall Close, Haverhill.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to Sgt Sarah Bartley at the Haverhill Safer Neighbourhood Team on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Not happy: Parents Against Public Transport Cuts organiser Eleanor Davison with pupils. Picture: Richard Patterson 733427.

Fare changes fail to please

BY ADAM LUKE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A CAMPAIGNER against bus subsidy cuts on routes to Roman Catholic schools says Suffolk County Council's backtracking on the issue is "not enough."

Eleanor Davison, of Broad Street, Haverhill, is a vocal member of Parents Against Public Transport Cuts (PAPTC) and has protested for months against council plans to remove financial support for pupils' bus journeys to the county's Catholic schools.

Currently, Mrs Davison has had to pay around £780 a year for her 11-year-olds triplets – Flora, Sophie and Kate – to travel to St Louis' Primary School in Bury St Edmunds. But that could rise to as much as £2,300 a year is council support is removed.

Councillors announced on Tuesday that they had revised the proposal after facing strong objections from parents, and said the Government had agreed to increase funding.

Instead of axing the subsidy completely and increasing the cost for students over the age of 16 to £200 per term, there will now be a smaller £20 increase in the price of bus passes to £150 per term.

Mrs Davison said: "I am, of course, pleased that something is happening about it, but it is not enough."

Get the message?: Simon Haffenden and daughter Sarah, 11, take part in yesterday's protest. 733426.

"Ultimately, kids have to go through the whole education system and it is not affordable, and the system they are talking about would not continue when my children move to their secondary school."

"It is very interesting that this concession has come days before the election. There is no guarantee that this will even be ratified by the new cabinet afterwards. Faith schools are in danger of being watered down or disappearing."

The announcement followed a six-week consultation aimed at finding ways to reduce the cost of school transport in Suffolk by £700,000 a year. The council received around 350 responses to the consultation, many of which expressed their concerns about the proposed changes.

Simon White, Suffolk County Council's director for children, said: "We understood very well from the consultation that while parents and carers understood the need to make savings, they were concerned about the impact of any potential changes."

Yesterday, the PAPTC held their most recent protest in which parents gathered in cars at Haverhill bus station before setting off in an 18-vehicle convoy on the bus route to Bury St Edmunds.

Mrs Davison said: "The idea was to demonstrate the impact on the roads of additional cars doing a 40-mile-round school run at rush hour, which is likely to happen as parents choose the cheaper option of withdrawing their children from the expensive buses and drive them to school instead."

Three deny drugs supply charge

THREE men have denied that they travelled to a Suffolk town from Berkshire with the intention of supplying the public with illegal drugs.

Maninder Singh, Choudhary Rafiq and Asad Ahmed have been charged with conspiracy to supply class B and C drugs during the period between December 22 and Christmas Eve last year.

The men appeared at Ipswich Crown Court last Thursday and all pleaded not guilty to the offences.

Judge David Goodin told the men that their trial, which is expected to last for four days, will take place next month.

Singh, 19, of Tamar Way, Slough and Rafiq,

24, of Ditton Road, Slough were granted a continuation of their bail conditions until their next court appearance.

But Ahmed, 23, of Howard Avenue, Slough, remains remanded in custody.

Bus cuts left son stranded

Sir, I am writing to air my frustration and anxiety at the bus services for Haverhill students attending schools and colleges in Bury after my son's 18-mile journey home, which took nearly four hours.

I would like to send a special message of thanks to all the cost-cutting politicians, and the directors and kind staff of Burtons Coaches and Mulleys Motorway bus companies.

While they all no doubt enjoyed their early getaway from work for the Royal wedding holiday, my son and I have been frustrated by being unable to successfully contact anyone able to help when he was stranded at school in Bury after the Mulleys 4.15pm service failed to arrive outside West Suffolk College.

My son got to the bus stop at 4pm to make sure he didn't miss the bus if it came early, but it failed to appear. I received a text from him and phoned Mulleys. The woman I spoke to was pleasant, puzzled as no one else had called and attempted to contact the driver to find out where the bus was. When her calls were unsuccessful, she took my mobile number and promised me she would call back as soon as she got through to the driver. This didn't happen.

My son then tried to use his weekly ticket on the 5.15pm Burtons bus that covers the 'same route' and on which, until recently, the tickets were transferable.

The woman driver on the Burtons 5.15pm was very unsympathetic, more concerned with her own problems of being "late" than my son's wait for the missing Mulleys bus, coupled with worry as to how he could get to his home 18 miles away. My son only had £2 left in his pocket, after paying £21.50 for a weekly ticket on his way in that morning and the Burtons driver refused to let him onboard as the single fare to Haverhill now costs £4.

Neither offering his last £2 cash or showing a valid Mulleys ticket for the same route, with the explanation that the last Mulleys bus hadn't appeared, was acceptable. She closed the doors and drove off leaving him alone, worried and angry at the bus stop. After being refused access to the 5.15pm, I told my son (who may be tall and adult sized – but also happens to have a statement special of educational needs) to walk to the bus station and suggest to an official that, as his only bus had failed to arrive, they either get him on the next bus or pay for a taxi to take him home and that, if all else failed, I would drive to get him as soon as I possibly I could, but that I would not reach Bury much before 7pm.

Eventually, after much waiting and anxiety, and many attempted phone calls for help, my son was able to use his Mulleys weekly ticket on the 6.15pm Burtons 1NS – apparently a subsidised special that accepts tickets from both companies.

This, of course, is the last bus of the day between Bury and Haverhill, and terminates at the bus station, a mile and a half walk from where we live. After leaving college at 4pm, he eventually got home at nearly quarter to eight.

So, to all you planners who don't have to rely on the buses, please consider the young, the old and the vulnerable

Try the private sector, Ms Hill

Sir, With regard to the recent articles in the press reporting on comments that were supposed to have been made by Ms Hill, to the effect that she thought that those of us that criticise her wage are jealous of her!

Well, I would like to enlighten the lady to the fact that it is not jealousy on my part, but simple resentment as one of the peasants that has to contribute to both her extortionate wage and all the extras. And I can see why council tax has doubled since 2001.

However, if she feels so hard done by and thinks life is easier in the private sector, please make the break, but without any 'golden handshakes', as you have had enough!

Also, I can see why Jeremy Pembroke is going, and an old English saying springs to mind.

Runners, take your marks...

LEARN to run this summer by taking part in a beginner's running course.

The 10-week course, organised by Haverhill Running Club, aims to introduce people to running in a safe and enjoyable way, starting with gentle walk/jog sessions with the aim of participants completing a 5km run.

The course, which has been funded by West Suffolk Local Strategic Partnership, has been put together by coaches at England Athletics. It starts on Thursday, May 19 at 7pm.

The club will meet at Haverhill Leisure Centre before heading out onto the pavements for the first training session and will meet for the following nine Thursdays.

Coaches will also give beginners advice on footwear and clothing and teach participants stretches to stay injury free.

At the end of the 10 weeks, participants will have the chance to take part in a 3-mile challenge event at East Town Park and then decide if they would like to continue running in one of the club's groups for no extra cost.

The course costs £40 and includes a technical running top, drinks bottle and membership to Run England and Haverhill Running Club.

Warning after thieves strike

BY LEANNE EHREN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

HOMEOWNERS are being warned to be on their guard following a spate of burglaries in Haverhill.

Jewellery, cash and electrical items were stolen during three burglaries which took place between last Wednesday and Saturday.

Thieves smashed a window and stole jewellery from a house in Waveney Terrace sometime between last Wednesday and Saturday.

Between 11.30am and 5pm last Friday, an mp3 player and games console was stolen from a house in Hazel Close after offenders gained entry through an insecure door.

The third burglary took place in Meeting Road between noon and 5pm on Saturday when thieves entered a house through an insecure door and stole a handbag. The bag was later found in an alleyway by a nearby church but cash was missing.

Say vigilant, say police, as burglars raid homes

There was also an attempted burglary at around 8pm on Monday, April 25 when a man tried to break in to a house in Station Road but was disturbed by the occupant.

The man, described as white, of slim build, 5ft 10in tall, with short dark hair, wearing a black or dark blue short-sleeved T-shirt, ran off towards The Pightle.

Police have warned homeowners to deter thieves by making their home appear as if someone is inside by using timers on lights and turning a radio on to a talk station.

Installing obvious security measures like alarms, security lighting and CCTV can be a great way to deter thieves, crime reduction officers have said.

Advice has also been given for residents to use their gardens to protect their home by planting prickly hedges, laying a gravel driveway and putting up a "beware of the dog" sign.

Sheds can be an Aladdin's cave for a burglar so homeowners should keep them and ladders and tools securely locked so they cannot be used to break into your home.

Homeowners can also mark high-value items so they can be identified if they are stolen.

Anybody with information about any of the crimes should contact DC Mark Robinson at West Suffolk CID on (01284) 774100 or Crime-stoppers on 0800 555111.

Hot brews keep cash pouring in

A DONATION from a supermarket is fuelling a football club with hot drinks.

Tesco in Haverhill donated £30 to Kedington Youth Football Club to buy flasks for tea.

A club spokeswoman said: "The donation from Tesco has been used to purchase additional hot water flasks. This means we are able to provide tea and coffee right through to the final whistle.

"Kedington Youth FC are currently joint top of the Cambridge Colts U13 C league, due partly to the success of the tea bar as profits are fed directly back into the club in the form of isotonic drinks for players."

Rockers tune up for school funding

ROCKERS are set to take over a Suffolk town this weekend.

Classic rock cover band The Fallen will make some noise and entertain the crowds at the Grampian Social Club in Little Wratting in aid of Thurlow Pre-school on Saturday.

Fans of Guns 'n' Roses, Iron Maiden, Thin Lizzy and AC/DC are invited to experience the successful five-man outfit's 38 great rock covers.

Since their formation in 2005, The Fallen has played more than 140 gigs in Sudbury, Cambridge, Halstead and Ely, and in July 2008 supported Hi-on Maiden at the Iron Maiden Fan Club Twickenham pre-show party in London.

Thurlow pre-school moved into a new building in the village in January last year and has plans to develop its outside play area.

Lynsey Parsons, deputy leader at the school, said: "Everyone is looking forward to these exciting developments, which couldn't happen without essential fundraising events like the rock night."

Tuning up: The Fallen will be performing at Little Wratting on Saturday.

CP

"The aim is to have an outside learning environment that complements the fantastic facilities available within the purpose built pre-school." Doors open at 7.30pm and the show ends at midnight. Tickets cost £7 in advance from STP Stationary in Camps Road, Haverhill, or £8.50 on the door. For information call Julie Westrope on (01440) 710974 or 07867 936 896.

Public anger sees U-turn on libraries

CONTROVERSIAL plans for library services to be taken out of county council hands have been dropped.

Suffolk councillors had agreed to pass on the running of individual libraries to community groups, parish councils or other organisations.

But those plans have this week been abandoned following public uproar.

Protest groups claimed that the proposals would result in the closure of 29 community libraries, including those in Clare and Kedington, if no groups took over the running of them and filled the funding and staffing gap.

Suffolk County Council's sudden U-turn means the authority will retain ultimate responsibility for running libraries, with community groups simply given the opportunity to help run individual branches.

BY ADAM LUKE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Suffolk's libraries will be run by a community interest company, fully owned by the county council.

But the decision does not ensure that all branches will remain open.

Cllr Judy Terry, Suffolk County Council cabinet member for libraries, said: "I hope that all libraries will remain open and, ultimately, we would like to see new libraries created for communities across the county."

"The review of library services has shown how much they are valued by their communities, but it has also shown that different communities want different things from their libraries and this should allow them to develop in different ways."

Over the three-month consultation period, which ended on Saturday, members of the ruling Conservative group at the county council faced unprecedented strength of feeling against their plan, with marches taking place across the county.

Cllr Terry said: "I am glad to see how important people feel their local libraries are. When you look at how vocal people have been, you realise how valuable their libraries are to them."

"I would much rather have that than indifference toward the future of library services."

The reviewed proposals for the future of the library service will become official policy if approved by the new cabinet next month.

Fraud trio starting prison sentences

JAIL terms have been handed to three men who conspired to cheat schools, charities and businesses across four counties.

The men were sentenced for their role in the Business Telecom Ltd affair, which involved the fraudulent selling of deals for telephone equipment worth £1.18 million to customers in Suffolk, Essex, Hertfordshire and Norfolk.

Among the victims was West Row Community Primary School, near Mildenhall.

Christopher Boughton-Fox, 48, who had a £600,000 salary as the company's chairman during the three years the crime took place, was sentenced to seven years in prison.

Jonathan Parrish, 42, sales manager, was handed a five-and-a-half-year sentence.

Both men had denied conspiracy to defraud.

Salesman Neil Debenham, 28, who had admitted the charge, was jailed for three years.

All three have been barred from directing a limited company for seven years.

David Wilson, prosecuting at Ipswich Crown Court, said "dishonesty was endemic" in the company, where staff were pressured to tie people into expensive contracts and customers were lied to.

In mitigation, the court heard that few of the customers were vulnerable.

Boughton-Fox, of Thorpe St Andrew, near Norwich, has been declared bankrupt and Debenham, of East Somerton, near Great Yarmouth, has debts running into six figures.

THE Haverhill Business Awards 2011 are coming up fast, as the glamorous evening kicks off on 14 May at Chilford Hall.

It doesn't seem long ago since the previous night in 2008, but the businesses who took home the trophies have gone from strength to strength in the intervening years. Let's hope the same success will befall this year's candidates, some of whom have recently been announced.

In the Large Business category

Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College, ARDEX, Saffron Insurance, Abbeycroft Leisure and Vion Food Group will be up against one another. Meanwhile ARevolution, CXG Property Services and Haverhill Tandoori will be competing for the Retailer award.

The two nominees for the title of Young Entrepreneur are Andrew Westrop of Digi-Europer and Paul Gardiner of Axa Insurance, while the Small Business award will go to either Tiny Toes Childcare, CXG Property Services, Lead Generation International, ARevolution or Paul Donno & Co.

There are several repeat contenders, with Paul Donno & Co also up for the Best Use of Technology, against Days Inn and Digi-Europe.

Tiny Toes Childcare will also have a representative for Employee of the Year alongside Saffron Insurance, Digi-Europe, Axa Insurance (who has two running) and Abbeycroft Leisure (also putting two forward).

It's a two-horse race for Start Up Business of the Year between Tiny Toes and The Best of Haverhill, while Marketing Strategy of the Year could go to ARDEX, Paul Donno & Co or Abbeycroft Leisure.

There are other nominees waiting to be announced, so be sure to keep reading the Haverhill Weekly News, the event's official media sponsor.

VION's site in Haverhill employs over 300 staff and produces sliced cooked meats for major retailers in the UK.

The business is happy to support the Chamber of Commerce Business Awards, and is delighted to have been short listed for the Large Business Award.

new venture, which offers more than 25 different dishes, will prove popular all year round.

Mr Porche, who hails from the food-loving Dordogne region of France, runs Porche home improvement construction but has also had 10 years of catering experience across Cambridgeshire and Suffolk.

The 46-year-old, who is working alongside business owner Mrs Porche, 47, said: “It is like a bistro on the street and I would encourage people to come and try something that is unusual and a holiday type of food.”

“The market has been struggling of late and we hope this addition will be welcomed and help the town.”

Mr Porche added that he had recently recovered from a difficult 11 months of chemotherapy but he was now in the clear, and said the business felt like a positive fresh start.

Students shun Easter holiday

SIXTY committed Year 6 pupils went back to school during the Easter holiday to prepare for upcoming exams.

As part of their final preparations for national tests in early May, the youngsters participated in a programme of study at Castle Hill Community Middle School in School Lane, Haverhill, over three days.

Due to the unusually late Easter break, followed by the shorter school week as a result of the Royal Wedding, staff and parents felt much of the momentum secured so far could be at risk.

Teachers from Castle Hill,

Burton End, Place Farm and Kedington tutored in small groups and one-to-one situations on the April 19, 20 and 21.

And as a treat for their hard work, pupils were rewarded with an Easter egg hunt on the final day, with prizes provided by STP and Tesco.

School hosts jumble sale

TOYS, bric-a-brac, books and clothes will be up for grabs at a pre-school's annual jumble sale.

West Wickham's village hall will host the event, organised by Daisy Chains Pre-School, on Saturday from 2pm until 4pm.

There will also be a cake stall and refreshments with all proceeds going to the pre-school.

Items to be donated may be left at the village hall between 10am and noon on the morning of the sale.

Thief takes car exhaust

THE exhaust system has been stolen from a blue Mercedes Sprinter van, in the latest in a series of similar crimes this year.

The incident took place between 5pm on Wednesday, April 27 and 7.40am the following morning, in Cambridge Way, Haverhill.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to the Crime Investigation Bureau on (01473) 613500 or Crimestoppers, anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Alert as car catches fire

A CAR was on fire in a street near Haverhill.

The incident happened on Saturday and two fire engines from the town attended the scene after being alerted to the fire in Silver Street, Withersfield, at 8pm.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to Pc Laura Harris at Haverhill Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers, anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Stalls set out at fair

A MAY fair is taking place at sheltered housing accommodation.

Sherman Court in Mill Road, Haverhill, is hosting the event today with everyone welcome to attend and browse stalls, which will include bric-a-brac, Cats Protection and Greyhound Protection groups.

The day will start in the lounge at 10.30am.

We're off to see the lizards . . .

Close and personal: Matthew Leeder, 10, Ellie Leeder, 13, George Leeder, 10, and keeper Patricia Chaves with a Indonesian blue-tongued skink

Picture: David Johnson 730501.

VISITORS to Linton Zoo enjoyed exciting encounters with snakes, lizards and giant millipedes over the Easter weekend.

The zoo ran a variety of tours and keeper talks on Saturday, April 23, allowing lucky families to get up close and personal to some of its more exotic species.

Zoo keepers Katherine Edwards and Patricia Chaves showed off a leopard gecko and blue-tongued skink reptiles while three young Turkmenian eagle owls – currently being hand-reared – were also sighted by members of the public.

Dawny Greenwood, zoo keeper at Linton, said: "Throughout the school holidays and at weekends we have an exciting range of keeper talks, animal feeds and interactive animal encounters designed to get you much closer to some of our animals while giving information about our conservation projects."

Homes call for students

HOST families are needed for foreign students spending a year at a local school.

Samuel Ward Academy has invited youngsters from central Europe to study in Haverhill from September this year through to June next year, and need families to come forward to house the 16 to 18-year olds.

Jan Bergau, co-ordinator of internationalism, said: "We have found these students to be very open minded and are keen to get involved in the local community.

"They go back with great experiences and it helps their English a lot."

Hosts will be reimbursed with £100 a week for taking care of their visitor.

For more information, contact Mrs Bergau on (01440) 761511 or janbergau@samuelward.suffolk.sch.uk

Pupils dig in for ancient history lesson

PUPILS from a local school jumped at the chance to test their archaeological skills on digs with a famous tutor.

Students from Clare Middle School in Cavendish Road took part in a mock pit excavation over two days across 16 different sites in the village.

The project, linked with Stour Valley Landscape Partnership, was led by Dr Carenza Lewis from Access Cambridge Archaeology, an outreach unit of Cambridge University's Department of Archaeology.

Dr Lewis is better known for her involvement with Time Team on Channel 4, and the BBC's Story of England.

Robert Wheeler, assistant headteacher, said: "This was a fantastic opportunity for our pupils to engage in a big project in which they learned about the techniques of archaeology and about the history and development of settlement in Clare over hundreds, even thousands, of years.

"It was really exciting, and will hopefully lead to our pupils aspiring to higher education."

a revolution

5 year anniversary advertising feature

A perfect place for pampering

PAMPER yourself this spring, with the help of an award-winning local business.

ARevolution, which this month celebrates its five-year anniversary, has been a hit with clients since day one.

Its owner, Theresa Foddering, who has 10 years of experience working in the local area, credits its success to a "homely, welcoming atmosphere. We want clients to feel like part of the family from the moment they walk in the door."

The company, which as well as Theresa has two beauty therapists, a hypnotherapist and a holistic therapist, offers everything from manicures, pedicures and waxes, to non-surgical face lifts, hot stone massage and eyelash extensions.

The firm also stocks a range of skin care and body products as well as Jessica Nail Care.

ARevolution won Retailer of the Year in the 2008 Haverhill Business Awards.

Theresa said of the occasion: "It's great to get recognition when you've worked so hard to get somewhere. The award gave us great status within the town, and we received a lot of media coverage."

"The business has grown massively since that day, and we've gone on to win smaller awards such as Most Loved Business of Haverhill. We've just gone from strength to strength."

This has been proven on a national scale, when the company was placed fourth in a competition to find the best-loved beauticians.

To celebrate the anniversary of such a thriving business, ARevolution will be holding an open day on Saturday, from 10am-5pm. Visit for goody bags, demonstration treatments, nibbles, a raffle and most importantly, your chance to meet the team.

ARevolution is open Tuesday 10am-3.30pm, Wednesday and Thursday 9am-8pm, Friday 9am-5pm and Saturday 9am-4pm.

Going green for funding

SCHOOLS and workplaces across the east of England will be going green in support of the region's volunteer paramedics. Emergency medical charity Magpas is asking people to wear green on Friday, May 27, to help raise funds for its rescue efforts. The Cambridgeshire-based charity provides the only dedicated night-time air ambulance service in the UK. Its volunteers include more than 50 medical professionals who spend their nights on call to respond to emergencies by helicopter or car. A spokesperson for the charity said: "Magpas has been saving lives for the past 40 years and we have come to the rescue for over 50,000 people. Now we need your help."

The service spends £1,500 on each of its day and night shifts, with costs including drugs, equipment and the day-to-day running of its helicopter and land vehicle. It costs £1 to take part in Green Day and participating groups will receive packs including stickers, posters and collection tins. Call Magpas on (01480) 371 063 or visit www.magpas.org.uk for details.

OUT OF THE DARKNESS: Journey's End comes to Cambridge Arts Theatre this week. Right, director David Grindley at Vimy Ridge.

Four find hope on the battlefield . . .

WHEN it came to gathering inspiration for his stage production of Journey's End, director David Grindley could think of no better place to get into the minds of his characters – four young soldiers struggling to cope with the turmoil of the First World War – than the battlefields of northern France.

Touring the graveyards, memorials and trench systems, David discovered a landscape still scarred from the fighting that took place almost 100 years ago. Yet amidst the horror, he also uncovered a world of camaraderie, spirit and even humour, as warriors became friends and clung to humanity in a world of chaos.

"I came here in 2003," says Grindley as we emerge from the damp, oppressive darkness of the preserved tunnel system at Vimy Ridge and into the peaceful, 21st century sunshine. "I was struck by the close proximity that the men lived in. I decided to try and replicate that sense of claustrophobia as much as possible," he adds.

As the emotive war drama comes to Cambridge this week, director David Grindley takes JENNIFER SHELTON on a tour of the battlefields in France that inspired him, and explains why humour will always win out, even in the toughest, bleakest situations.

Despite the beauty and tranquillity of the Vimy Ridge site in 2011 – now green and leafy once more – underground, in the rough maze of passageways and cramped dugouts, it's still 1917. The marks of frantic pick-axes in the clay walls remain, and an atmosphere of dull foreboding still lingers in the heavy air. Here, soldiers younger than me drew their final breaths, surrounded by a crush of strangers beneath foreign soil.

"There's no escaping the way the presence of the British and the Germans had completely distorted the landscape," Grindley continues. "It's all green fields and trees now, but you can still see the moguls, the mine craters . . .

"It ties into Journey's End in terms of Stanhope's description of the environment he's come to be in. When I went there for the first time I got a real sense of looking out at that distorted plateau. It would have been a completely bleak, desolate and devastating landscape. And the senses would have to negotiate that. The smallest bit of beauty, be it birdsong, blue sky, beautiful sunlight through a trench door, strawberry jam . . . would become absolutely essential in order to maintain a sense of humanity."

Journey's End, by R. C. Sherriff – himself a veteran of Vimy Ridge, was first staged in 1929 when the memory of the Great War was still fresh. Several generations later, Grindley's West End adaptation of 2004 touched the hearts of its audiences through its poignant exploration of the human heart and mind in the face of hopelessness and fear.

Grindley has purposely chosen very young actors to play the parts of Stanhope and his men in order to bring home the fact that these boys, not long out of the schoolyard, are now responsible for making life or death decisions.

But among the horror, there are also laughs.

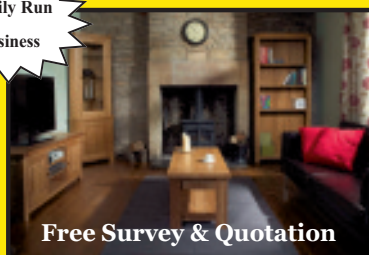

"So many people are surprised by how funny this play is," he says. "But that's how the British do it, they make light of things, they do the work, and they bond together to make the best of the situation they're in."

Playing with fire and big screen action

THE Haverhill and District Flower Club will hold its monthly meeting at the town's arts centre on Monday at 7.30pm.

Heather Shaw will be the guest flower demonstrator with the theme, Playing with Fire.

Come along and watch an expert in action.

■ On the cinema front at the arts centre, an updated adaptation of Graham Green's seminal story of crime and doomed romance.

Brighton Rock (15) takes place in the 1960s when groups of Mods and Rockers clashed in bloody rallies. Sam Riley brings his own charm and swagger to the role of Pinkie Brown, a young criminal working his way up the ranks of the underworld. It screens on Monday at 1.30pm.

■ The Coen Brothers return with an adaptation of the Charles Portis novel True Grit (15). It tells of the vengeance-bent 14-year-old Mattie Ross, who enlists the help of the toughest lawman to track down her father's killer. It's showing on Wednesday, May 11 at 7.45pm.

■ The Adjustment Bureau (12A) is on Friday, May 13 at 7.45pm. The film is loosely based on a short story by Philip K Dick. An odd couple, whose romantic engagement falls foul of some peculiar circumstances, feel that it's not just fate that is keeping them apart.

Post-war twist on tale of two lovers

IT'S Verona, 1948. The war is over, but there's a fight in the streets. Inspired by the films of Coppola, Pasolini and Fellini, the Cambridge University Amateur Dramatic Club's production of Romeo and Juliet brings out the grit and grime of Shakespeare's tale of star-crossed lovers.

Beneath a world of bright lights, riches and romance lies an anarchic subculture of organised crime. The rival families of Montague and Capulet infect the streets with bloody violence. In a chance encounter, two young people fall in love.

In this fresh, visceral production, flick-knives replace swords, tailored suits replace doublets and hose and the balconies of 16th-century Verona are replaced with the stark blacks, whites and reds of post-war Italy.

It is not without reason that Romeo and Juliet is known as the greatest love story of all time. Its story is just as compelling and its themes just as relevant today as they were when the play was first performed 400 years ago.

As director John Haidar explained: "What we have worked to create in this production is a story with a razor-sharp political edge, rooted in a world infected by violence, and reaching into the modern day."

"Full of agony and ecstasy, it allows a unique insight into the essence of what it is to be human."

Freya Berry, co-producer, added: "It's quite a brutal re-imagining. Something quite modern and fresh. We've got a really good cast too, and it's all come together really well."

■ Romeo and Juliet, ADC Theatre, until Saturday at 7.45pm. Tickets are £10 (£8 concessions) from Thursday-Saturday, and £8 (£6) for Saturday matinee. Book at (01223) 300085 / www.adctheatre.com

Singles fire up in the 70s

FINAL Curtain Theatre – the company behind acclaimed productions of The Seagull (2011), Cat On A Hot Tin Roof (2010) and Madness Of George III (2009) – return to the ADC Theatre in Cambridge this week with a new staging of David Mamet's modern classic, Sexual Perversity In Chicago.

Mamet's study of changing sexual mores in early 70s urban America follows the love affair of office manager Danny and commercial illustrator Deborah from first "encounter" to closure. They might have made a success of their relationship were it not for their choice of confidants, Bernard and Joan, who persistently sabotage and undermine. The problem? Bernie wants everyone, Joan just wants someone and Dan and Deborah want each other!

A fast-talking, sexually charged urban comedy set in the singles scene of the Windy City, Sexual Perversity In Chicago runs until Saturday at 11pm. Tickets are £6. Contact: (01223) 300 085 / www.adctheatre.com

The big film

certificate 12A 114m

KENNETH Branagh returns to the director's chair or a special effects-laden romp based on the popular Marvel Comics superhero.

Thor is certainly his most technically demanding film to date but the miasma of digital trickery and pyrotechnics doesn't appear to faze Branagh, who balances the slam bang thrills of a summer blockbuster with tender romance and broad comedy.

Chris Hemsworth unquestionably possesses the imposing physical presence of the titular hammer-wielding god of thunder, who is brought down to Earth – literally – to learn about humility.

He sensibly leaves the emotion to Oscar winners Natalie Portman and Anthony Hopkins, who inject passion and fury into a predictable narrative from AD 765 to the present day, incorporating Norse mythology into a story of sibling rivalry. In the fantastic realm of Asgard, ruled by Odin (Hopkins) and his wife Frigga (Rene Russo), Thor (Hemsworth) is an arrogant heir to the throne. The fallen god materialises in the desert in New Mexico, where he befriends scientist Erik Selvig (Stellan Skarsgard), protege Jane Foster (Portman) and intern Darcy (Kat Dennings).

The spark of attraction between Thor and Jane is palpable but without his powers, the fallen god must face the same trials and tribulations as any other mortal.

Action set pieces are orchestrated at breakneck pace and the digital effects are polished, including a terrific skirmish between Thor, the Frost Giants and a monstrous guardian of the frozen realm. The 3D format is largely redundant. Most of the action is close combat and flight sequences are too brief to warrant the increased price for the plastic spectacles. Ardent fans of the comics should wait until the end of the credits for an additional scene involving SHIELD agent Nick Fury (Samuel L Jackson) and an artefact from the film Captain America: The First Avenger, which opens on July 29. The cross-pollination of the Marvel Comics universe continues apace.

It's time to perk up your pots

I'VE jet-washed my patio and spruced up my garden furniture – now, the only thing left are my patio pots, which is where the fun begins.

If you're buying new pots, choose the same types – a row of three or four large containers looks much better than an assorted mix of pots you might have accumulated over the years.

Historically, annual bedding plants have been used to brighten the scene, offering a wealth of colour, but in recent years gardeners with little time and less money have recognised the merit of permanent plantings, where only the surface of the soil needs to be scraped off and replaced by new compost every year, rather than the whole planting scheme.

More gardeners are also seeing the merits of evergreens, which add structure and form to the patio all year round.

Summer-flowering bulbs such as agapanthus, or African lily, look fantastic in pots, providing a striking display of ball-shaped flower clusters in blues or whites, late in the summer. Use a large deep pot to accommodate the roots and grow these sunlovers by themselves in containers, preferably somewhere sheltered.

Plant the bulbs now and you will have to be patient. It may take a couple of years for the flowers to appear, but if you keep them somewhere sheltered near the house or under a porch during the winter, they should come back year after year.

by Hannah Stephenson

You may have the popular Verbena bonariensis in your perennial border, but now you can buy a smaller version, V. bonariensis to enjoy the same clusters of lavender flowers on low-growing, mound-like plants.

It's ideal for pots, being low-maintenance, drought tolerant and good for cutting and is available from www.suttons.co.uk

Ornamental grasses can also add movement and colour to the patio scene. Fountain grass, Pennisetum setaceum is a natural for containers, filling the pot with its arching habit and rich burgundy colour.

An alternative is Imperata cylindrica, a slow-spreading type with clumps of bright green leaves, whose tips turn blood-red, followed by the rest of the leaves.

Silvery white flowers appear late in summer to keep the pot ablaze. It likes moist, rich soil in full sun or part shade and will need mulching in winter for protection.

To add structure to any summer pot display, add a tropical-looking canna or go for the sword-like leaved phormium or cordyline, although these will need protection in the winter.

However, there is still a place for annuals, particularly for those who have the time to give the tender loving care these colourful summer sizzlers will need. If you want a blaze of colour, have your fill of fuchsias, geraniums, osteospermums and climbing sweet peas, but try a few new varieties too.

Petunia 'Black Velvet', the world's first black petunia, developed by flower breeding company Ball Colegrave, is worth a try. I started my plug plants off on a windowsill and they are already flowering. Put some of those in with a dainty white bacopa, which will trail over the container, and you will have a rather sophisticated plant combination which is much more original than the myriad garish colours of petunias you find in so many retail outlets. The new black petunias are available from good garden centres and online retailers.

PURPLE PATCH: a row of three or four large containers looks much better than an assorted mix of pots.

Seven: Wonder of the East

SPORTS car company Caterham Cars, whose Seven model was made famous by the cult TV series The Prisoner, has been bought by Team Lotus Enterprise (TLE).

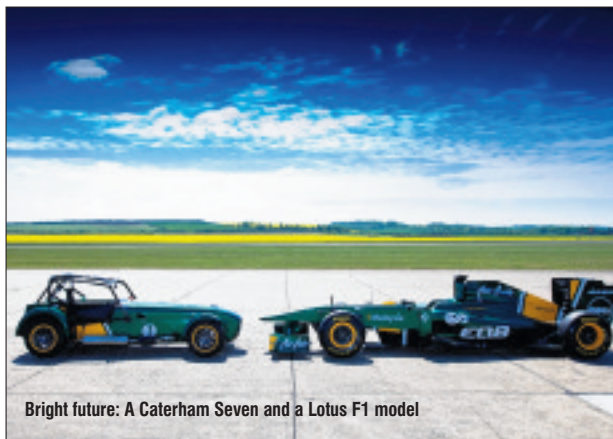

The acquisition by the company behind the Team Lotus Formula One squad will mean a possible expansion of the Caterham family of cars.

Patrick McGoohan, the actor, drove a green-and-yellow Caterham Seven in the enigmatic 1960s' show The Prisoner.

The existing Surrey-based Caterham management team, which is headed by managing director Ansar Ali, will carry on.

Mr Ali said: "This is yet another exciting chapter in the Caterham story."

"Until now, the resources Caterham has had at its disposal have, naturally, limited the exposure of the Caterham experience and the legendary Seven has had to rely almost entirely on its remarkable reputation and legacy.

Bright future: A Caterham Seven and a Lotus F1 model

"The acquisition of the company will allow our existing management team to take Caterham's core spirit of pure driving enjoyment to a hitherto unserved audience."

"While the Seven will now have the global springboard it deserves and will continue to be evolved yet further, we also have the opportunity to expand the Caterham family beyond the Seven and SP/300.R and breathe new life into our uniquely respected brand and mature it into a truly global business."

Tony Fernandes, of Team Lotus Enterprise, said: "Caterham has a unique place at the heart of the motoring world."

"As well as being proudly and staunchly British, it has an enviable and uniquely unblemished reputation within the industry for performance, handling and engineering excellence."

To celebrate its new ownership, Caterham Cars will build a limited run of Team Lotus Special Edition Sevens. There will be 25 for the home market and 25 for export.

Opening night win is Evan sent for Weston

WESTON Colville's Evan Gard and Adam Taylor powered their side to an opening night win in the Adams Harrison Midweek League, Division One. Chasing Babraham's 141 for 8, an innings built around Tom McNulty's 54 and 32 from Jeff Free but kept in check by Fred Scruby's 5-28, Gard smashed 60 and Taylor an unbeaten 31 to get Colville home at 142 for 4 with 1.3overs to spare. Stuart Whitehart battered 89 as Long Melford cruised to victory against Halstead in Division Two. With Hugh Waters (49) in support Long Melford reached 174 for 6, Halstead falling short on 129 despite 48 from Olly Eekers and Tom Philp's 31.

LEWIS Whiting has won the first 'major' of the year at Haverhill, the Foundation Cup.

The junior member stormed to a convincing four-shot win in the event which is open to all sections of the club with a maximum handicap limit of 18 for men, 21 for boys and 30 for ladies and girls.

Two consistent rounds helped Catie Heathfield to second place with Ed Baker third.

Watting Lions' Russell Davis hammered 85 and probably thought his side had done enough to beat Haverhill II in Division 3A after they reached 123 for 2. However, Sam Hartshorn led the response with 47 as Haverhill got home with nine balls to spare, despite the efforts of Kerry Ewens, who finished with 3-41.

Andrew McDonald made Linton pay for dropping three catches. ## Paffett hits back

GARY Paffett has set his sights on a podium place in the DTM's next round at Zandvoort after an encouraging fightback in the opening race at the Hockenheimring. The Mercedes driver made a mistake in qualifying and had to start towards the back of the grid. But a good race strategy helped him cut through the field and Haverhill-based Paffett said: "After this performance, my target is to win the next race. My THOMAS SABO AMG C-Class is good enough for that."

Five-star Powley

West Watting Youth 12 Haverhill Rov 1 Cambs Mini League, under-10B JOE Powley cracked five goals as clinical West Watting recorded what, they admitted, was a "slightly flattering" scoreline. Rovers also had their fair share of possession, but were rocked by the home side's sharpness in front of goal as they raced into a 6-1 lead at the break, Jamie Culleton adding to Powley's haul. The other goals came from James Coleman (3), Lewis Lindsay, Dominic Brophy and Kieran Webb. Kedington 8 West Watting 0 Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13C KEDINGTON worked hard to get the upper-hand in their derby against West Watting, George Mustoe and Ty Alleyne scoring hat-tricks in each half. Kedington's early pressure paid off with the opener for Mustoe, who went on to score the first three goals. Ellis Wiffen made it 4-0 just before the break, with man-of-the-match Jason Moore interrupting Alleyne's hat-trick burst with the sixth goal.

Running into fitness

HAVERHILL Running Club is looking to get potential athletes out on the road with their second beginners' course. With funding from the Suffolk Local Strategic Partnership, the 10-week course which has been put together by coaches at England Athletics aims to get people running 5k by the end of the sessions. The course – which costs £40 and also includes membership of Run England and Haverhill Running Club, as well as a technical running top and drinks bottle – starts at 7pm on May 19 at Haverhill Leisure Centre with a gentle walk or jogging session. And, at the end of the programme, there will be a chance to join in a three-mile challenge event at East Town Park, mainly to see the difference 10 weeks makes.

>> Freestyle motocross

FREESTYLE moto-cross star Chris Birch has confirmed that he will be riding in the UK FMX Championship at Rougham Airfield near Bury St Edmunds next month. And, in doing so, it will be the first time he has competed near his Haverhill home. Birch, 26, is widely regarded as Britain's No 1 in the spectacular sport and, since 2007, has been a main rider in the Red Bull X-Fighters Exhibition tours. In 2009 was one of the four riders who gave a FMX demonstration in front of the pyramids in Giza and took part in the competition staged at Battersea Power Station. The former Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College student (pictured) first got on a motorcycle at the age of seven, and was snapped up for the Lings Honda Motocross Display team when he was only 15. Once he started competing on the international circuit he joined Jimmy Verburgh's Belgium team, FMX4Ever, in 2005.

Home is where the art is for high-flying Birch . . .

Blunder at back stuns Rovers

Haverhill Rov 1 FC Clacton 1
Ridgeons League, Premier Division
CALLUM Harrison was on target as Haverhill were held in their final league game of the season. He appeared to be second best in a tussle with a defender, but his strength got him through as he collected Marcus Hunt's high ball and fired home.

However, the lead was short-lived as a defensive error resulted in them being pegged back, although Joe Boreham shot wide moments later. Dalton O'Brien and Harrison both went close to restoring Rovers' advantage in the second period, but the hosts had to settle for a point and eighth place in the table.

Cool Sullivan seals victory in last-ball drama

HAVERHILL'S Saturday and Sunday first XIs continue their contrasting start to the season, the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship side suffering against Copdock and OI while the Hunts County Bats Sunday League side won a last-ball thriller against Mildenhall.

The Saturday side collapsed to a miserable 53 all out and suffered a crushing 105-run defeat by Copdock & Old Ipswichians in Division One.

Copdock batted first and posted 159 all out, Scott Webb the pick of the Haverhill bowlers with 4 for 32. But Haverhill openers Adam Dellar (4) and Webb (8) were removed cheaply and the wickets continued to tumble.

No batsman reached double figures and the team were dismissed for just 53.

They continue their search for their first victory in the top flight at Coggeshall on Saturday.

However, the Sunday first XI maintained their unbeaten start in a thriller against a strong Mildenhall side. Rob Sullivan and Raj Singh took early wickets to reduce the home side to 15 for 2, but free-scoring Baugh took the game to Haverhill with an unbeaten 134 out of their testing 243 for 4.

And, despite an early, setback Dellar and Luke Youngs sensibly built a solid launchpad before Dellar fell for 91. Three other wickets fell in the rush for quick runs but Sullivan joined Youngs (95 not out) and together they got Haverhill's target down from 43 from four overs to 10 off one.

And, with the scores level with one delivery remaining, Sullivan lifted the ball over the close fielders to claim victory. Haverhill put their unbeaten record on the line against Sudbury at Manor Road on Sunday.

The Saville brothers were the key performers in the Sunday seconds' defeat of Bardwell in the Hunts County Bats League's Division Four.

David Saville's devastating final two overs produced figures of 4-12 as he took five wickets in Bardwell's 177.

Tom Saville then scored an unbeaten 73 as Haverhill, who are at Mildenhall II on Sunday, got home with eight balls to spare.

■ Haverhill's Saturday seconds open their Division Six campaign at home to Braintree II on Saturday while the new third team are at home to Linton Village College III in their CCA League, Division 6B clash
